SCIENTISTS TRACK STATEWIDE STREAM HEALTH

New Regional Watershed Health Reports Show Results

Each summer, crews of scientists and technicians head into the woods, over fields, and down canyons to locations along dozens of rivers and streams in one of eight watershed-based Status and Trends Regions around Washington.

The researchers survey the numbers and types of animals — especially the bottom-dwelling, or benthic, invertebrates, like mayflies and caddisflies — as well as the physical and chemical attributes of the streams. Crew members often hand-carry the gear they need, plus plenty of fresh drinking water, for some distance. It takes a long, full day for the crew to survey one site.

Third Time's the Trend

This will be the long-term Watershed Health Monitoring study's fifteenth year of studying stream habitats region-by-region, and the team is on its third sampling round through the state. Now that the team has been through each region at least two times, some preliminary trends are emerging.

Watershed Health Monitoring by region is a web-based report designed to share preliminary statewide and region-by-region watershed health information in an engaging and interactive way.

Happy Little Streams

Fish and stream bugs need cool, clean water to thrive. Cold water, plenty of shade, an appropriate pH, not too much silt or sand... these are great attributes for a stream to have and are indicators of good stream health. Such conditions can support a healthy stream habitat for salamanders, frogs, invertebrates, and a variety of fish.

Some streams, however, have less-than-stellar amenities for the animals that live there. The researchers call attributes that indicate poor stream health "stressors." This refers to the way in which these stream attributes stress healthy biological communities. The stressors found in each region vary in severity and type.

A cutthroat trout measured for length and released during one of our stream surveys.

To create our new regional report, researchers looked at stream attributes shared by minimally impaired places — called "sentinel sites" — to the attributes of carefully randomized regional stream areas — called "random sites." By comparing the random sites to the sentinel sites, researchers can assess the overall river and stream health of an area.

Our new report focuses on the types of stressors found in each of eight Status and Trends Regions and the numbers and kinds of animals that live there, comparing these data to those of minimally impacted areas.

Overall, the study found:

- Rivers and streams with low stressors tend to have a variety in the types of stream invertebrates and healthier habitats for all critters, including fish.
- Rivers and streams with many stressors, those with many poor physical and chemical stream attributes, are places where we don't find vibrant and abundant biological communities.

Measuring what Matters

Aquatic macroinvertebrates (or bugs) are good indicators of stream health.

All of our data are available to scientists and the public through the WHM Search¹ database. We share our methods with other scientists, and our data contribute to Washington's annual State of the Salmon² report. We are proud to provide key guidance for salmon restoration projects.

This year, our teams will set out for the third round through the Mid-Columbia region, including sites near Cle Elum, Ellensburg, Rimrock, Yakima, Prosser, and Kennewick, following an annual sampling schedule.

Check back from time to time. We will look in on the Watershed Health crews over this summer's sampling season through our blog and social media accounts. As the researchers analyze new data and gain new insights, adding to our emerging picture of statewide and regional stream health year by year over time, we'll keep you posted.

"The Outdoor Insider"

I had another great week of sockeye fishing on Lake Wenatchee. People are loving this record-breaking season. The wind even laid down for a couple of days, making the fishing even more fun. Still, I have only missed a couple of days of sockeye fishing this year due to high wind. There were a couple of days when I wondered what the heck I was doing going out there but managed to either limit or get near limits on those days.

Last Sunday I traveled to Brewster to see how the Brewster King Salmon Derby turned out. Mike Mauk, derby organizer was busy, but took the time to visit with me while anglers turned in their catches. Participation was lower this year, because of the closure of the Brewster Pool to fishing for Chinook. Still, all those who did chase kings turned in some great fish and the reader board was full. The first angler I saw at the derby headquarters to turn in their catch was four-year-old Beau Benson. She was hugging a salmon that weighed 11.86 pounds. It turned out that the 8 & Under category on the leader board featured three Bensons! The coveted King of the Pool award went to Gage Howe, with a 20.63 pound Chinook. At the top of the Adult category leaderboard was Pat Coffee, who landed a 19.66 pound king. This was the second year in a row that he topped this category. Everyone that took part in this year's derby was extremely glad they did and are looking forward to next year's event. This week's photo is of Beau hugging her catch, which took second place in the 8 and under category.

Last Thursday was only the second calm day on Lake Wenatchee this season. What a pleasure, just running on my bow mount electric. Last year I got Travis Maitland, District Biologist for Region 2 out fishing, and we had a great day. On Thursday Travis came fishing with me again, and this year we were joined by Chad Jackson, Fish Program Manager for Region 2. I have known both of these guys for years, long before I served on the WDFW Commission. They have been very helpful, keeping me up to date on area fisheries. Both of them are avid anglers, and it was a real pleasure having them on the boat. They knew how to run the riggers, set the other rods and net the fish. It was a nice break. I usually am doing all of these things while driving the boat. We got off to a good start and had four fish in the cooler fairly quickly. The action slowed after the first hour or so, but we just kept plugging away and picked up a fish every now and then. We covered quite a bit of water and got our 12 fish. A terrific day on the water!

Valley Tractor in East Wenatchee got into the boating business back in the late 90s. Buell Hawkins met with me and said that he wanted me to represent their line of Smoker Craft boats. He told me that he would give me a new boat every year, and that I had to take him fishing for the rest of his life. It turned out to be a great deal. Valley Tractor sold boats and Buell and I have become lifelong friends. I made good on my part of the deal on Wednesday, when I took Buell and his grandson fishing on Lake Wenatchee. Luke said that if he caught one salmon it would be a great day. He got his wish. Not long after we got our lines out he cranked in a fish, and while Buell was netting it, two other rods went off. Somehow we managed to get all three fish in the boat and into the cooler. We all agreed to fishing until 9 'o clock, so we could have breakfast at the Squirrel Tree. I sent them home with seven sockeye and some great memories.

I want to remind everyone that there is a special event planned for the Blackbird Island Juvenile fishing pond. My neighbor, Calder Fiske, is my number one fan, and probably the most enthusiastic angler I know. Although just 12 years old, Calder has come up with a plan to help get kids out to experience the fun of fishing. He has planned a Just for Kids Fishing Fun Day Derby at Blackbird Island Pond in Leavenworth on Saturday, August 17th. Blackbird Island Pond is open to Juveniles only and only kids under the age of 15 can fish here. Calder has medals to award anglers who turn in their biggest fish in several age categories, age four up to age 14. He also has a medal to give the angler that clearly had no help from their parent. Kids need to bring their own fishing gear. Families can register their kids when they arrive at the pond. The event starts at 7 a.m. and you can turn in fish until noon. If you have any questions or would like to volunteer to help at the event, you can contact Calder at Calder.fiske@icloud.com.

One of my favorite things to do on hot summer days here in Leavenworth is fishing Icicle Creek. When it's 90 degrees in town, I grab a light weight fly rod and drive up the valley to cast to the small rainbow that are abundant in this stream. Splashing around in the cooling water I think of nothing other than where to place my next cast. The trout are small, but I find big relief from the heat or anything else that occupies my mind during the day. The Icicle is right in my back yard, but there are some other streams that offer the same solitude and have bigger trout to chase. The Kettle River, not far from Curlew Lake, is high on my list. My wife and I have spent several days on this small river. It is loaded with rainbow and brown trout and a few cutthroat. On one occasion, we watched a big rainbow, and I mean 3 or 4 pounds, grey hound upstream after breaking me off. We were stunned at the sight of this fish. That's what keeps me going back to the Kettle. I want another chance at a trout like that one—that got away.

STUNNING YEARLING FILLY, DOUBLE REG. AQHA & APHA

Extremely quiet, laid back & docile. Foaled April 2, 2023 to Shining C Grulla www.shiningcgrullahorses.com Sired by Justa Splash Bomb, Black Overo. Dam: Invited To Be Fancy, Buckskin Overo. This pretty girl is quite hip high at the moment & busy growing! She'll be close to 15hh & very stout, already at 575lbs. From center of knee to coronet band is about 15". Current on West Nile, worming & hoof trim. She loves to play in the trough & when splashing the water accidentally got her leg tangled in the deer fence. Immediate veterinary care showed wound completely superficial & should heal without a trace. See left front leg, both registries list her color as black, which I did not indicate. She has a small white belly patch, 3 socks & the prettiest little head ever, asking $5,500. Text 509-994-3415 North of Moscow, Idaho

CREATURE FEATURE

KINKAJOUS

The Kinkajou, also commonly known as the "honey bear", can be found naturally in the rainforests of Central and South America. In the wild, they spend a majority of their lives in trees and their ability to rotate their ankles and feet 180° makes them truly impressive climbers! Their nocturnal nature can make enough noise to make sleeping difficult, so interested pet owners should keep that in mind when placing their kinkajou habitat.

LIFE SPAN:
Approx. 20-25 Years

ADULT SIZE:
Approx. 3-8 lbs.

DIET:
Commercial Monkey Food, Fruit

HOW MANY:
Best in Pairs

DIFFICULTY:

SET-UP
Moderate

CARE ROUTINE
Moderate

COST OF UPKEEP

AVAILABILITY
Moderately Difficult

HABITAT:

Kinkajous require a large habitat space to live comfortably. They are active and need plenty of vertical space for climbing and exercise, so the taller the enclosure, the better.

NECESSITIES:

- A minimum cage size of 4'x6' with a height of at least 6'
- Ledges, Shelves, etc. for Climbing
- Hammock, Sleep Sack or Nest Box
- Heavy, Ceramic Food & Water Bowls

ACCESSORIES:

- A Variety of Parrot Toys
- PVC Pipe Tunnels
- Branch & Rope Climbing Decorations

GREG BIFFLE RETURNS TO TRI-CITY RACEWAY
Former track champion to run ARCA West race, Aug. 10

Former NASCAR Cup veteran Greg Biffle. Greg Biffle photos
Las Vegas, Nevada — Sigma Performance Services (SPS) is thrilled to announce that renowned NASCAR driver Greg Biffle will be returning to his racing roots by competing in the ARCA Napa Auto Care 150 at Tri-City Raceway. Biffle will be driving the #23 Chevrolet for SPS in this highly anticipated race, set to take place on Saturday, August 10, 2024.

Thus will be the first appearance of the series at Tri-City Raceway since 2003 and the 10th race in series history.

In a homecoming that pays tribute to his Pacific Northwest origins and devoted hometown fans, Greg Biffle will tackle the unique 1/2-mile tri-oval challenge of Tri-City Raceway.

Born in Portland and growing up in Vancouver, Washington, Biffle began his illustrious racing career on the bullrings of the Pacific Northwest, making him no stranger to Tri-City Raceway or any of the short-track speedways on the West Coast.

Biffle, who earned a spot on NASCAR's 75 Greatest Drivers list, is no newcomer to the ARCA Menards West Series. His impressive career includes competition in the former NASCAR Winston West Series in the early 1990s, a stepping-stone in his ascent to the NASCAR Cup Series ranks. Biffle has also achieved significant success as a champion of both the Craftsman Truck Series and the Xfinity Series, showcasing his versatility and talent across different NASCAR divisions.

In collaboration with GMS Fabrication,

Chevrolet, and the ARCA Menards Series management group, Greg Biffle is set to return to the track with renewed vigor. His participation in the Napa Auto Care 150 marks a significant moment for both Biffle and SPS as they navigate the challenging turns of Tri-City Raceway.

"I'm so excited to return to the famous Tri-City Raceway" Biffle said. "I'm looking forward to returning to the track in an ARCA West car almost 30 years after I won the track championship."

SPS team owner Joe Farré expressed his excitement, stating, "We couldn't be more proud to be a part of Greg's return to his racing roots in the Pacific Northwest. As a West Coast racer myself, I cannot thank the local supporters, track owners, series sponsor, and series officials enough for the opportunity to return to iconic race tracks like Tri-City Raceway."

"Greg's commitment to this race, the racing community, and growing teams like ours just goes to show how important it is that we all work together to keep racing alive in the Pacific Northwest, and across this great country," Farré added.

The ARCA Menards Napa Auto Care 150 promises to be a thrilling event, showcasing top-tier talent and electrifying racing action. Fans can catch the excitement via live

KELLY REBOUNDS FROM TRI-CITIES CRASH FOR SEAFAIR VICTORY

Seattle (Aug. 4) — Eight days removed from flying through the air in Tri Cities at the Columbia Cup and crashing in a preliminary heat, J. Michael Kelly piloted the U-1 Beacon Electric to victory in the Apollo Mechanical Cup on Lake Washington.

Kelly posted an average speed of 141.358 mph to easily outdistance Jamie Nilsen in the U-11 Miss Mercury's Coffee at 131.051 mph on the 2.5-mile course in the milestone 75th edition of the race.

"This was a much-needed win and just an amazing feeling right now," Kelly said.

Following a crash-plagued Columbia Cup in which three of the eight-boat field were sidelined, all boats returned to Seattle. Each driver involved in the Tri Cities incidents were treated and released from onsite medical care facilities.

The Strong Racing duo of Kelly and Corey Peabody in the U-9 Beacon Plumbing put on an impressive side-by-side battle in the final lap of the final heat.

However, it was determined by review Peabody encroached on the U-91 Miss Goodman Real Estate hydroplane of Andrew Tate and ultimately was assessed a one-minute penalty dropping him to seventh in the final.

"This is just amazing and it just shows you the team that we have and the team that backs me and Corey (Peabody)," Kelly said. "I created a lot of work in Tri-Cities this past week and we spent a lot of hours fixing my boat so to be able to come back from that and chip away and find speed and to win Seattle again is just amazing."

The H1 Unlimited hydroplanes will be back in action in San Diego, California for Bayfair and the APBA Gold Cup September 13 to 15 for 2024's final race.

HOW TO SAVE MONEY MOVING TO YOUR NEW HOME

If you're moving this year, there is a good chance you are incurring a lot of expenses. Whether it's making a large down payment on a new home or purchasing an appliance, the costs of moving can add up. Packing supplies, hiring labor and the time it takes to transport your items to your new home are a large part of overall moving costs. There are several ways you can save some money without sacrificing the quality of movers and materials needed to relocate items to your new space safely and efficiently. The following are a few tips to save you money when moving into a new home:

Purge Before Packing. One of the best ways to cut costs during a move is to not take every item with you. Before you start bubble wrapping or tossing items in boxes, decide which items you might want to donate or dispose of. Most movers charge hourly. You don't want movers to spend time moving items you'll end up tossing out at your new place. This will also help you save time packing and unpacking.

Host a Yard Sale. A yard sale is a great way to turn your unwanted items into some extra cash. Check with your local city hall to see if your community requires permits for yard sales, and find out if you're allowed to hang signs on telephone poles, light posts, etc., to advertise your sale. Be sure to place an ad in the Exchange to advertise your sale as well. Your best bet is to start your sale in the morning on the weekend. Bargain hunters start shopping early. Make sure to price items to sell so you aren't left with too many unsold items.

Pack Your Items. Expert moving companies offer a range of services, which often include packing all the items in your home. You can save hundreds of dollars by packing your own possessions. Need a little motivation? Host a friends or family packing party to help you get started. If you have time, organize like items in boxes and clearly label them. For procrastinating packers, prioritize carefully wrapping fragile or delicate items you don't want to be damaged during the move.

Secure Multiple Moving Quotes. The first estimate you receive from a mover may not always be the best. Experts recommend securing at least three bids. Like most businesses, they may be willing to negotiate prices or talk to you about where you can save costs. In general, you'll get the best deal if you move during the off-season, which is October to April. If you move during the peak season, try to avoid holiday or weekend moves. And the cost to hire movers is typically lower during the middle of the week.

Avoid Buying Supplies. No matter how big or small your move is, you'll likely need boxes. And the price of boxes can add up. Luckily, moving boxes are plentiful and available for free, you just need to know where to look. Start by asking friends and family if they know of people who recently moved if they have boxes they can give you. Most retail locations, like grocery stores, have boxes available for free. You may also have suitable substitutes for packing paper and bubble wrap. Old newspapers, blankets, towels or even socks can provide the padding you need to secure your belongings.
