Fishing Magician

Reach Dave @ www.FishingMagician.com or FishBoy@nwi.net

Dave Johnson
"The Outdoor Insider"

There is a lot going on here for anglers in the region. Everything from fall Chinook in the Hanford Reach, and a lot of Coho staged off the mouth of the Wenatchee River, waiting for some rain to raise the level of the stream so they can make their way up to the Icicle. There is even some good spiny ray action on area lakes to take advantage of.

Last Sunday I went down to Crescent Bar to see the results of the Quincy Chamber of Commerce Pike Minnow Derby. There was a line at the weigh in station when I arrived, and chamber staff and volunteers were busy weighing and measuring the fish that people had caught. I learned that although the overall registrations were down from last year, they had the highest number of kids signed up this year. The Youth Division winner for most fish was won by Makenzie Nelson, who turned in over 11 pounds of pike minnows. In the Adult Division, Kevin Halbert weighed in 83.5 pounds of pike minnows to take the prize. This year the Grand Prize was a Polaris side by side and was won by the team of Brian Main and Dave Munson. You can see all the winners of each division for both weight and length on the Quincy Valley Chamber Facebook page. This week's photo is of Makenzie Nelson, with the trophy she won.

Fishing for perch is one of the most popular things to do in our area, and there are some great places to find them. I can make a short drive from my home in Leavenworth and catch as many as I want to fillet at Fish Lake. Much larger perch can be found in other lakes. Many folks were pleased to hear that the fishing season was extended on Park and Blue lakes, north of Soap Lake. I have had some reports of perch up to 14 inches taken on these lakes, and I plan to give Blue Lake a try as soon as possible. Another lake that is known to produce good catches of perch is Moses Lake. When you see anglers on the I-90 Bridge near Blue Heron Park, you know the perch have moved into this area. Fishing for perch from the rip rap here is particularly good in the fall, right up to when the lake freezes and then they are caught through the ice.

Another good place to look for perch in the fall on Moses Lake is at the south end near the outlets. I plan on doing a video of where to catch perch on Moses Lake very soon and I will let you know when it is posted to the Dave Graybill YouTube channel.

I have been watching the number of steelhead that have been passing over Priest Rapids Dam very closely, and they have been very encouraging. It has been a long time since we have had a steelhead season on the upper Columbia, and I have been holding out hope that this could be the year. We not only need good numbers of wild fish to reach our area, but also the right ratio of hatchery fish. If we get too many wild fish, then we hit the mortality quota way too early to allow for a fishery. It's complicated, I know, but it looks like the stars may all align for us fans of steelhead fishing this year. When you ask other anglers what their favorite fish to catch might be, and if they have experienced the thrill of seeing a steelhead leap out of the water and tear line off their reel, they will most likely answer, steelhead. My wife is a fairly fair-weather angler, but if I suggest a steelhead trip in the winter, she's raring to go! I will continue to monitor the progress of steelhead to our region, and keep you posted on the potential of a season.

I checked on the Icicle late last week, to see if the recent rain had raised the level of the stream, maybe even spot some Coho nosing up the upper end below the hatchery. There was an angler casting a fly when I arrived, and I got to visit with him. He was casting to some Coho! He said he saw a big one roll just down around the corner the last evening, too. The recent rain had raised the level of the Icicle just slightly, but it was enough to move a few fish into the stream. I checked the counts when I got home and there were over 14,000 Coho over Rock Island Dam by the 25th of September, and only 4,800 over Rocky Reach. There could be as many as 10,000 Coho waiting off the mouth of the Wenatchee or somewhere between there and the Icicle! When we get some more rain, they will be pouring into the Wenatchee and up the Icicle. It's going to be fun. I want to remind folks that as of October 1st several lakes in the region close for the season. Be sure to check the registers before you head out to your favorite lake.

As many of you know Omak Lake is one of my favorite places to fish in the fall. The lake is on the Colville Reservation, just eight miles from the town of Omak, and gets very little pressure. It is not unusual for me to be out there with no other boats in sight. I'm sure the reason is that to fish here you need a Colville Tribal fishing license. The addition of the need for a Colville Reservation Access Permit and Launch Fee has been a deterrent for most folks to fish here. I have been fishing tribal waters for many years and have had terrific fishing at Buffalo Lake, Twin Lakes and on the San Poil River. I fish Rufus Woods frequently and use the launch at the middle net pens, so I have what I need to fish Omak Lake anyway. We have some beautiful sunny and calm days in October and the fishing is incredible for the big Lahontan cutthroat that inhabit the lake. It is not unusual for me and my fishing partners to catch and release ten or more fish an hour trolling a variety of spoons and plugs. It really is amazing.

KLEYN CAPS CHAMPIONSHIP SEASON WITH FALL CLASSIC VICTORY | From NWSLM Media & NW Motorsports News Services

West Richland, Wash. – Kasey Kleyn made it a weekend to remember when he clinched the Northwest Super Late Model Series presented by RaceCals championship, as well as scoring one of the biggest wins of his young career.

Kleyn grabbed the lead for the first time on lap 175 and led the rest of the way for a $10,000 victory in the 37th Annual "Fall Classic 200" on Oct. 6 at Tri-City Raceway in front of a packed grandstand.

The win comes after Kleyn had nearly won several Super Late Model events at the 1/2-mile tri-oval. He just missed victories in both the season opening Apple Cup as well as the 2023 Fall Classic.

"It means a lot" Kleyn said "We have tried super, super hard and come so close in the 'Apple Cups', and we came so close in the 'Fall Classic,' Kleyn said. "To get this win really solidifies everything. We get our name on a hoodie, and we are so happy we finally did it."

It was not an easy victory for the Quincy, WA teenager. He opened the day's competition by earning the AFCO Racing / Longacre Racing Products Fast Time Award with a lap of 17.714 seconds in a field of 32 drivers.

On lap 93 Kleyn slowed on the backstretch with what turned out to be a broken axle. With fuel issues a concern, the series called for the break at that point, with teams allowed to change two tires.

The pause in the on-track action gave the team time to make necessary repairs.

"I was really worried", Kleyn said. "The break couldn't have come at a better time. We lost the axle and then we went to break, which allowed us to call my dad to get the axle out of the trailer. It wasn't down here, so it took a lot to get to the axle and we barely got it in time. I am just really grateful to my crew. They really busted their butts to get that taken care of and get us back on track."

The caution flew once again on lap 142, as Scott Walker spun from the seventh-place position, after contact from Kleyn. Both drivers went to the tail of the field for the restart.

By lap 159 Kleyn was on the move, joining the lead pack and on lap 163, he moved into the top five for the first time and on 175 Kleyn was in the lead for good.

With laps clicking off, it looked like Kleyn was home free, before Andy Beaman spun in Turn 1, just in front of the leader. That gave the field one more shot at the 2024 series champion, in an eight-lap shootout.

After his Victory Lane celebration, Kleyn talked about the most challenging part of the 200-lap affair.

"Going from day to night and keeping your left sides (tires) on for 200 laps", Kleyn related as his biggest race challenge. "The weather change definitely changed all the cars."

After a five-win season in the Northwest Super Late Model Series season, Kleyn was excited to take home the championship, and looks forward to the future.

"It feels really good, we worked hard all season", Kleyn stated. "I think that was our fifth win of the season. We finished inside the top three in a lot of them. We probably could have had a couple more wins if things had gone a little better, but we still powered through."

As for past Fall Classic winners in the field, defending champion Evan Goetz was eighth, 2016 winner Jason Jefferson 20th with 2022 winner, Donnie Wenat 24th and 2006's titlist, BJ Tidrick in 32nd spot.

The father / son combo of John Dillon and Johvan Dillon pulled the number one and two pills earning a unique spot in race history on the front row in the top eight re-draw of fastest qualifiers.

Jeff Hillock, 13. Danica Dart, 14. Christopher Kalsch, 15. Kaden Holm, 16. Gabe Sessler, 17. Zandar Peters, 18. Rod Schultz Jr., 19. Ray Clever, 20. Scott Walker, 21. Jason Jefferson, 22. Dave Garber, 23. Doni Wanat, 24. Ken Bonney, 25. Ryan Phipps, 26. JJ Mullins, 27. Terry Halverson, 28. Jess Havens, 29. Jan Evans, 30. Steve Thompson, 31. BJ Tidrick, 32. Dillon Huffines

FATHER AND SON AT FALL CLASSIC

Some history was likely made at the 37th annual Fall Classic at Tri City Raceway on Oct. 6 with dad, John and son, Johvan, who both raced. It is possibly the first such generational combination in the long history of the event. Through the luck of the draw the two wound up sharing the front row at the start of the race and finished No. 8 and No. 10 respectively for the Meridian, Idaho duo.

NASCAR DRIVER BIFFLE, X'S MUSK STOPPED IN HELENE AID EFFORT

Vancouver, Wash. native and notable NASCAR Cup Series driver Greg Biffle reportedly has had major roadblocks put in the way by FEMA of relief he has offered to provide to Hurricane Helene victims. Greg Biffle photo

Semi-retired NASCAR Cup driver and Vancouver, Wash. native Greg Biffle put on his helping hands hat following Hurricane Helene only to be thwarted in his efforts by federal officials according to Newsweek.

Biffle was nominated for the Presidential Medal of Freedom on social media for his efforts after Helene created a swath of devastation up the interior Eastern seaboard and the Appalachian Mountains.

But according to Biffle and Elon Musk, the Federal Emergency Management Administration (FEMA) refused to allow personal helicopters from delivering aid.

While Biffle teamed with Polaris to provide generators, Musk had planned to provide in the neighborhood of 200 Starlink satellite systems to provide communication that was lost to the storm.

Newsweek reported that Musk went on his social media platform, X (formerly Twitter) to explain how people aren't allowed to transport essential supplies by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA).

"SpaceX engineers are trying to deliver Starlink terminals & supplies to devastated areas in North Carolina right now and @FEMA is both failing to help AND won't let others help. This is unconscionable!!" Musk posted.

Biffle said "He made six landing attempts before finally succeeding, due to the challenging terrain," the Newsweek account noted.

Survivors on the ground got Biffle's attention by using signal mirrors which generated the X post that followed.

"The mirror that caught our attention well over a mile away; only way we were able to find someone stranded in the mountains at bottom of steep canyon. 6 attempts to land due to difficulty but we got there - got him a chainsaw, EpiPens, insulin, chicken food, formula, gas, 2 stroke oil, and sandwiches premade from Harris Teeter before we left #hurricanehelene."
